Explanations:

This burndown chart reflects steady progress through our stories near the end of the sprint. Many of the stories started getting finished after two major stories GIV-68 and GIV-75 were finished. This was because it was mostly a dependency for other stories and once they were completed other members finished theirs promptly.

Velocity:

The velocity this sprint is much higher compared to other sprints. Although we didn't finish one of our larger user stories and a small one, we still consider the sprint a success since this sprint was so incredibly large.
